General aviation maintenance regulation reforms ready for public consultation, yet CASA management have placed them on hold.

Deputy Prime Minister,

Further to your announcement in July 2018 at the General Aviation Summit in Wagga Wagga of important reforms to Australia's general aviation maintenance regulations.

This week, the AOPA Australia has learned that the general aviation maintenance regulation reform package is now ready for advancement to public consultation, but CASA management have now placed them on hold.

These new regulations are essential for our industry and we call on you to ensure that there are no unnecessary delays.

Thank you for your time and our association awaits your reply.

Yours Sincerely,

BENJAMIN MORGAN
